

History of Business

The Kashan Rug Gallery offers professional expertise in rug selection and maintenance. Owner, Pari Janati has been in business in the Rockland area for twenty years, and her family has been working in the industry for two hundred years. Knowledge about the art of rug-making has been passed down over four generations to provide the foundation of expertise and service at Pari's store.

As one of the few women in the industry, Pari also brings a flare for design into the service she provides. Her resources are plentiful, and she is dedicated to finding just what her customers are looking for. Rugs may even be hand-woven as ordered for specific needs.

Pari also lends her expertise in rug maintenance by providing a cleaning service by hand with all-natural products as well as all kinds of repairs for any kind of rug. On many occasions she makes house calls to accommodate customers in the care of their rug. Weaving is no simple task, and those masterpieces that were created with love and skill are worthy of respect and longevity. We offer our services for the sake of this ancient art and for the practical warmth and color it brings to every-day life.

Caring for your Oriental

- Good padding and protection under furniture legs is highly recommended to protect the rug from undue wear.
- Vacuuming regularly will do an excellent job of removing surface soil. As the brush on some vacuums may be too harsh for every-day, use attachment, and remember to vacuum under furniture to prevent moth damage.
- If you should spill a liquid, use paper towels to absorb excess moisture; then dilute the area with water and blot, raising the wet area until dry. For food spills, try to remove as carefully as possible with a dull knife, then follow the same steps as for liquids.
- If you store your a carpet for any length of time, take care to pack your Oriental with moth repellents, and wrap in strong paper. Professional cleaning before storing is advisable.
- Professional cleaning with natural products is necessary usually every 3-5 years to maintain the value of your rug. Never steam clean or use harsh chemicals or bleaches. Rugs made with good wool and dyes will always clean very nicely.
